

AWAKEN MORE FULLY – BE READY FOR 2012

By

Sandra Faye

For months I have had people write me with questions about 2012. I won't list the questions for I do know many of you hear or read the same inquiries, nor will I write out my own prophecies about this upcoming trying time. What I will do as I feel it is my call of service to mankind, is offer words of strength, hope and stability in a seemingly unstable earthly time.

First, let me state that what each of us must do is seek a greater awareness of God in our life. We must realize that the full reality of God cannot be known until it is directly apprehended and experienced. It is easier, however, to awaken to God-awareness when we first have a clear intellectual and intuitive understanding of what God is.

The transcendent aspect of God is fully conscious existence-being devoid of attributes. Because it is without modifying characteristics (form), it cannot be accurately imagined or described. Many identify with God as they contemplate the beauty of creation and its creatures realizing a Divine Source created it all.

The manifesting aspect of God, sometimes referred to as the Supreme Being or Oversoul, has attributes which can be described: expressive, luminous substance, expressive, transformative power; and inertial influence which makes possible the emanation of its cosmic forces which produce and sustain a universe which exists for possibly trillions of solar years.

My message to all who read is one which I pray will encourage each one to be emotionally mature during this closing year and the oncoming 2012. One must try to move forward and not cling to old beliefs about God which seem to keep one in bondage to confusion and no real peace and contentment in daily life. When we cannot let go and let God move us into higher realms of consciousness, we find ourselves constantly desiring to be comforted and fed more "daily news" rather than be liberated from overwhelming deceptions presented by unawakened minds on TV, the internet, and various teachers. Do not be one who is happy only when circumstances are to our liking.

Be a person who can be happy and praise God for all blessings when circumstances are not what we would call ideal. When we complain during unsatisfactory times, we are building a force field which feeds us as well as all others in our atmosphere. These seeds we are planting are not healthy and it will show in the fruits of that labor. Some of that fruit might be fear, worry, anger, jealousy, gossip, condemnation, vanity, envy, selfishness and greed.

Plant the seeds of faith, hope, generosity, patience, non-interference, kindness, courage, forgiveness and love. Nourish the healthy seeds of life with reading words of truth to improve your understanding and to be inspired and motivated.

God, being omnipresent, is where you are. Because you are a creation of God's pure consciousness, you have always been, are, and will ever be one with God. Let these words penetrate your being for they are pure light and truth which will continue to manifest from you to you a greater reality of God.

You may think it is hopeless to try to eliminate hatred and inspire mankind to Christ like ways of love, but never was the need so great as it is now. There are those who are battling and meeting secretly to manifest a plan to drive all religion out. The world is marching on a full drama of existence that will be challenging for many. Many feel that trying to stop all the worldly battles is like being an ant trying to swim in an ocean. What do we do? We hold onto that God given power of inner Light which never totally burns out. Do not let anything turn your Light off. You must stay in control of your power.

The one thing that will help to eliminate world suffering is not money, houses, or any other material thing. What will help in every situation is to meditate and transmit to others the divine consciousness of God that is real. Work in harmony with all that you do.

GOD IS LOVE AND I CHOOSE TO DWELL IN THAT PRESENCE
